

MATCH DAY SAFETY POLICY

Albion Rovers Football Club is committed to provide the safest possible environment for spectators at The Reigart Stadium.

The responsibility for the safety of spectators at sports grounds always lies with the ground management. Stewards are part of the ground management.

It is the policy of the Club to provide sufficient qualified Stewards to promote safety, comfort and customer service within the stadium and the immediate surrounding areas for all spectators and employees.

Stewards are employed to assist with circulation of spectators, prevent overcrowding, reduce the likelihood and incident of disorder, and provide the means to investigate, report and take early action in an emergency.

In carrying out these duties, Stewards should always be aware of, and ensure the care, comfort, and wellbeing of all categories of spectators.

The Club has appointed a Safety Officer, Terry Gillooly, who will ensure that the policy of the Club is fully complied with and that the Stewards are deployed in an efficient and effective manner.

The Board of Directors has overall responsibility for the function of all stewards and security matters within the Club.

The Safety Officer will ensure that all Stewards are suitably trained, and operational control meets the criteria set out in the Club's written policy of safety and in conjunction with recommendations published in the Guide to Safety at Sports Grounds manual.
